Have you ever felt the need to bet more and more and more money?

Have you ever had to lie to people about how much you gamble?

An answer “yes” to either or both of these questions may indicate a problem with gambling.

Lie Bet Screen by Johnson, E.E., et al. (1988).

Americans estimated to place $6 billion in bets on Super Bowl LIII

By Matthew Paras - The Washington Times
Monday, January 28, 2019

Americans will wager an estimated $6 billion in the upcoming Super Bowl between the Los Angeles Rams and the New England Patriots, according to survey results from the American Gaming Association.

Legalized sports gambling has spread across the country over the past year. In addition to Nevada, bets can now be placed in New Mexico, Delaware, Mississippi, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and West Virginia.

According to the survey, which was released Monday, 52 percent of the respondents said they would bet on the Rams. Nearly 10 percent of Americans will bet one way or another.

"The interest in legal, regulated sports betting in the United States has never been higher," said Bill Miller, AGA's president and chief executive officer, in a news release. "More Americans than ever before will be able to place their bets with legal sports books now operating in eight states, generating valuable revenue for state, local and tribal governments and increasing fan engagement with the game."

The survey also estimates that 1.8 Americans will still place a bet illegally through a bookie, with "millions more likely to bet illegally through offshore online books."

The Indiana Prevention Resource Center is now officially part of a new organization PREVENTION INSIGHTS.

The Indiana Problem Gambling Awareness Program is a projects under Prevention Insights. Our web address and contact information will remain the same.

PREVENTION INSIGHTS is a prevention organization grounded in public health, translational research, evidence-based methods, and the active application of addiction science to building healthier communities across America.
